

Short Term Farming Training in New Zealand

The aim of this programme is to teach international students industry skills and knowledge used by NZ farmers to increase farm production and efficiency.

This programme also provides the possibility for the student learn English and improve communication skills.

This will enable international students work on a New Zealand farm before they return to their own country and apply the knowledge and skills gained for the benefit of their own country.

This will be done by exposing the students to:

- Use of farm vehicles
- Livestock Management
- Milking
- Fencing
- Injury and Safety factors
- Practical experience

Benefits to the students:

- Easy for students find a job on farms in New Zealand
- Learn and/or improve English skills
- Provides skills and knowledge in the farming industry
- Have an understanding of how they can increase farm productivity
- Have all round practical skills involved with farm machinery
- Be able to work competently with livestock

COURSE STRUCTURE (Recommended)

6 - 10 weeks English study

2 weeks full practical Farming programme

ENTRY TO THE COURSE

- Have an agricultural background or an interest in agriculture in their own country
- Students will have English included in their course

Full Programme Schedule

